Canadian Legion Fore Big Success, Nov. 20th.

The Remembrance Day celebrations given by the Didsbury branch of the Canadian Legion proved the popularity of the entertainments put on by the Legion boys.

At the supper which was superintended by the wives of the members of the Legion, the seating capacity of the Knox United Church dining room was overtaxed, over 425 persons sitting down to the splendid chicken supper provided.

After the supper, the Opera House was crowded, many being unable to find seats when the play, "Leave," written by Mr. J. H. Lowrie, was produced.

The play, which was in two acts, depicted the scenes in France during 1917. The first act showed the boys in a billet just behind the lines, and songs and choruses of the time were introduced. While the boys were waiting a call back to the trenches.

The second act depicted a dugout and the realistic acting was brought to a climax with J. Robertson reciting "In Flanders Fields."

The whole play brought home to the audience what happened in France during the Great War.

All who took part in the play are to be complimented on their splendid acting, and it is interesting to note that all the cast were in the trenches during the war.

The following was the cast:
"Easy," J. Robertson, M.M.
"Sleepy," R. Webster.
"Spiky," E. Cogswell, D.C.M.
"Plum," F. Kaufman.
"Jenny," C. S. Mortimer.
"Scotty," J. D. Thomas.
"No. 9," Charlie Rowell.
"Co. Comm," E. Craig, M.M.

The scenery and backstage effects were taken care of by J. H. Lowrie.

Town Council Meeting.

There was only a small attendance at the town council meeting held Monday evening, the mayor and three councillors being present.

The principal business transacted was regarding the skating rink. Mr. H. Gabel was appointed caretaker and will commence making ice as soon as possible.

The fees for skating will be the same as last year. Single admission: Children 15 cents; Adults 25 cents. Season tickets: Children 15¢ and under, $1.00; Ladies, $2.00 and gent's, $3.00. Children will get free skating every Tuesday and Thursday from 4 to 6 p.m. and on Saturdays from 2 to 6 p.m.

A delegation from the hockey club met with the council to arrange for the use of the rink for hockey games. It was agreed the town receive 25 per cent. of the gate receipts and that hockey players each buy a season ticket at $2.00.

A delegation from the Agricultural Society asked that a grant should be made to the society and the council decided to make a grant of $100.

Large Enrolment At Bible School

Mountain View Bible School, located in East Didsbury is the scene of much activity these days, with its large group of young people who have gathered from Ontario, Saskatchewan, South Dakota and Alberta, and who have all enrolled for the winter course.

The young women's dormitory rooms are all well filled, as are also the young men's rooms in the new dormitory erected on the campus this fall for that purpose. Besides these dormitory students, a number from this community have also enrolled.

There are classes every school day both forenoon and afternoon, which are open for enrolment of any who might care to attend. Those in charge are always glad to welcome visitors to any class.

In view of the fine enrolment, one of the most successful years the Bible School has ever had is anticipated by students, faculty and friends of this institution.

Two Stores Burned Monday Morning

Good work by the fire brigade and numerous volunteers saved the north end of the main street being completely wiped out by fire early Monday morning.

Explosion of gases in the stove in N. Novak's harness shop is thought to be the cause of the fire. Mr. Novak was sleeping on the premises but the fire had made such headway that on discovering it, he was unable to save anything but clothing.

The efforts of the boys to save the premises occupied by Mrs. Wilson as a millinery and ladies' wear store were unavailing, but all the contents were removed.

The last work was done on the Russell bakery which was only a foot away from the burning building. The front of the bakery was torn out and all the heavy machinery and flour removed. Though the building caught fire several times, the strenuous efforts of the helpers, prevented the flames from spreading. Had the fire not been arrested here, nothing could have saved the buildings to the north.

The harness shop was owned by Mr. T. Wynan, and the millinery store by Mrs. Louise Vogel. We understand that there was no insurance on either building.

The loss on the contents in the harness shop amounted to about $1,500 and was partly covered by insurance.

It is estimated that about $500 damage was done to the bakery, which was fully covered by insurance.

Dysentery Is a Very Dangerous Bowel Complaint

Mrs. E. M. Ward, 627 Ave. H. South, Saskatoon, Sask., writes: "When my husband was in France he took dysentery, and was in hospital over a year. Ever since he came back he has had the attack three or four times a year. I cannot emphasize the good Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has done for him. He generally takes a few doses and gets relief in a few hours.

"I cannot speak too highly of your excellent remedy, and you may be sure we are never without a bottle of it in the house."

The Western Spirit

Are the people of Western Canada losing, or in danger of losing, that pioneer spirit which enabled them in the past to tighten their belts and hang on through times of stress and hardship, and that optimism which, looking to the future, could distinguish the silver lining to the cloud which presently loomed above them? Are the people of this generation losing, or have they lost, this spirit and outlook on life which carried their forefathers into the forests of old Ontario and Quebec to leave out homes, and which inspired the men and women of a generation ago to trek to the vast prairies of the West, build little shacks and break the virgin soil with a crude plow drawn by oxen?

These questions suggest themselves when we hear of the way in which a considerable number of people are reacting to the existing difficulties confronting them during this period of worldwide depression. Unquestionably many men and women are facing their problems just as courageously as ever, but there does appear to be an increasingly large number who are inclined to throw up their hands and rest content to become objects of charity and governmental assistance. There seems to be a tendency on the part of many to depend solely upon relief supplied by others rather than make a real struggle to provide their own relief from existing difficulties.

Government assistance in times of national emergency—as the Prime Minister of Canada has described the present situation—is necessary. So, too, is assistance that can be provided by churches, charitable organizations and individuals. Some families must have such assistance, and because the need has been created through no fault of their own, they are fully deserving of it. But there are many who can get along without it, or at least with a very minimum of such assistance, but who, because of the organization of relief measures on a large scale, are adopting the attitude that they might just as well get as large a share, a full share, of what is going on.

In cities and towns cases are constantly cropping up of people who could get along without help but who, lacking pride or even common honesty, have enfolded themselves in the relief net. The writer has even heard of farmers who, having a small crop, neglected to harvest it because, they argued, they could get more government relief if they had nothing than would be the case if they had even a little of their own.

After all, times like the present call for self-denial, self-sacrifice, courageous effort to make the best of things and get along with as little as possible. Before the great war people were asking questions somewhat similar to those appearing at the beginning of this article. Had the human race deteriorated? The stamina of the race was demonstrated in the fiery furnace of war, not only by men in the trenches, but by the munition worker, the producers of food, transportation workers, and the great mass of people everywhere and in all walks of life. Practically everybody was willing to assume their share of the burden and make their sacrifice, large or small.

A revival of the same spirit is necessary now. True, there were profiteers, and grafters, and shakers, during the war, but they were regarded with loathing and contempt then, and still are. We want none of them now. What Western Canada needs today in order to successfully tide over the existing depression, and to save the country for the future, is the old pioneer spirit which was so long the pride and boast of this country—the courage, the endurance, the optimism of the early pioneers. It was that spirit which made the country what it came to be; it was the same spirit that won the war; it is the same spirit that will save the day now, both in the case of the individuals who display such spirit, and in the country as a whole. Lying down, letting "George do it," trying to get something for nothing, grumbling and fault-finding will not better the situation one whit. It will only make matters worse.

Let us as a people, individually and collectively, stand upright on our own feet and fight our way through. Where there is a will, there's a way. It can be done. It must be done, or we are but creating greater problems and piling up still larger difficulties for the future.

Ten Years Of Seed Collecting

British Columbia Has Produced Over Twenty Tons Of Various Species

The establishment for the collection of forest tree seed which has been maintained at New Westminster, British Columbia, by the Forest Service of the Department of the Interior, has now completed ten years of service, and in that time has produced 49,940 pounds (practically twenty and a half tons) of seeds of forest trees of various species. Virtually all of this has been sent to the Forestry Commission of Great Britain and the state forest services of New Zealand and Australia. The chief species whose seed has been secured are Sitka or silver, spruce, western yellow (ponderosa) pine, and Douglas fir.

No One Escapes Tax

Germany Goes About Collection In Very Thorough Way

The thoroughness with which the German tax of 45 is collected is illustrated by the following incident that occurred at Mannheim Aerodrome, says the Geneva correspondent of the Irish Independent, Dublin.

A German citizen—a woman—was a passenger by air from Holland direct to Switzerland. She had been staying at Amsterdam, and was proceeding right through to Zurich. Unfortunately, however, she slighted for a few moments at Mannheim, in Germany, and because she had stepped on German soil she was relieved, despite her protests, of 100 marks for leaving Germany.

New Advertising Idea

As Carried Out By Grocer In Denver, Colorado

The idea is not exactly new but its application is so far as we know at Denver, Colorado, grocer, cutting a tunnel in two, pasted one half on the outside of his show window and the other half just opposite on the inside. That made the ball look as if it had been driven partly through the glass. A few streaks of black paint, artistically grouped like cracks. Nearby, a placard labeled "A Big Hit" carried a list of bargains the store was offering.

Gandhi May Visit America

Indian Leader Willing If He Would Not Be Made Ridiculous

Mahatma Gandhi is willing to go to the United States at the conclusion of the round table conference if his friends can convince John Haynes Holmes, New York pastor, that the Mahatma would not be made a laughing stock.

"Holmes tells me my visit would be misunderstood, that I would be exploited, ridiculed and misinterpreted," Gandhi said.

"If others who have invited me can convince Holmes I ought to go to America I shall be glad to reconsider my decision."

"Einstein said his visit was the greatest mistake of his life, because most Americans regarded him only as a spectacle. I'm not as sensitive as Einstein but I ought not to go to America unless the American people are willing to listen to my message rather than regard me as a curiosity."

Coal Imports

Increase Shown In Importation Of Welsh and Scotch Hard Coal

Anthracite coal from the British Isles, imported to Canada through the port of Montreal this season had reached a total of 556,685 tons to the end of September. The figure was 9,735 tons higher than in 1930 to the same date.

Overseas coal and coke receipts for this season are lower than last year by 105,020 tons, due to the embargo on the importation of Russian anthracite. The increase in Welsh and Scotch hard coal has not made up the difference. Last year 148,000 tons of Soviet anthracite was landed here.

MOURNING WARDROBE

"A death occurred in our family and I had to go in mourning. I could hardly afford to buy all black clothes, so decided to dye what I had. I consulted our druggist and he advised me to use the new dye. Everything came out beautifully: coats, wool dresses, stockings and all. I have no more to say about the excellence of the black Diamond Dyes. I tried another black dye and the results were impossible. I had to get Diamond Dyes and do the work over. Recently I have tinted my curtains a beautiful russet shade and dyed a rug a lovely garnet with Diamond Dyes. They are real money savers. The first dye money can buy—I truly believe."

Alfalfa Good For Humans

Hey! Hay! It's good for you, Alfalfa, the cow's delight, is bulky for humans, according to Dr. E. V. McCollum, of James Hopkins University. The cattle food, he told a health institute called by the Milk Council of Greater Chicago, is crammed full of vitamins and is palatable in salad form. As a substitute, however, for those who do not like hay, Dr. McCollum suggested that they drink milk only from cows fed on alfalfa.

When You CAN'T QUIT

Fatigue is the signal to rest. Obey it if you can. When you can't, keep cool and carry-on in comfort.

Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Aspirin tablets when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, they will often save the day and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Aspirin is harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it. No man of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses explained in the green directions. From a grumbling tooth to those rheumatic twinges, Neuritis, Migraine, Any nagging, needless pain.

Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross. They are of perfect purity, absolute uniformity, and have the same action every time. Why experiment with imitations costing a few cents less? The saving is too little. There is too much at stake. But there is economy in the purchase of genuine Aspirin tablets in the large bottles.

Made in Canada

Commercial Canning

Fruits and Vegetables Are Canned Under Strict Government Supervision

Commercially canned products, either fruits or vegetables, have an advantage from the technical standpoint of being canned at perfect maturity and within a few hours of harvesting. At one time the canning of fruits and vegetables was almost entirely done in the home; today the modern housewife gets her winter supply of fruits from the products of the up-to-date canning factories.

The pure food laws of Canada provide that canned fruits and vegetables must be sound products made from sterilized, clean, sound, properly matured and prepared fresh fruits or vegetables by means of heat, and kept in suitable clean containers closed automatically or otherwise, and marked as to conform in name to the particular fruits or vegetables used in their preparation. No adulterated preservative or artificial coloring may be used in commercially canned fruits or vegetables. They may contain only pure water, sugar and salt as preservatives.

All canned products manufactured in Canada are produced under the strict supervision of the commercial canning inspection service of the Dominion food branch. Under this service four grades for quality are provided, and these are respectively: Fancy, choice, standard and second. The terms used to describe each grade indicate clearly and concisely the nature and character of the product which qualifies for the grade.

An Oil Of Merit Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is not a jumble of medicinal substances thrown together and pushed by advertising, but the result of the careful investigation of the healing qualities of certain oils is a rare combination and it won old kept public favor from the first. Trade Opportunities

Good Market In France For Canadian Horses and Cattle

With a little adjusting of conditions here and there, there is every reason why Canada might export between 10,000 and 15,000 horses annually to France, and should also secure a larger share in France's cattle imports, which run to $200,000,000 annually, in the opinion of Michael Sauzet of Paris, who deals with livestock in a large way and who has been spending several weeks in Canada as a purchaser.

World Trade Coal For Wheat

The newspaper Tageblatt said negotiations were underway for the barter of half a million tons of Ruhr coal for a quantity of Brazilian coffee in a manner similar to that in which Brazil recently traded coffee for wheat from the United States. The Tageblatt suggests that negotiations might be extended to include a trade of coal for Canadian wheat.

Fundamental Facts In Reference To The Gold Standard And Its Effect On International Trade

(By H. G. L. Strange, Director, Research Department, Scarle & Co. Company, Limited, Winnipeg)
The expressions "inflation," "deflation," "fluctuation of exchange," "On the Gold Standard," "Off the Gold Standard," have been much written and talked about during the past few weeks, and inasmuch as expert economists and financiers do not all agree as to the respective benefits or defects of these economic policies, the plain person may be puzzled for long somewhat bewildered by it all.

Perhaps, however, a simple review of some of the fundamental facts upon which the majority of experts seem to agree may be of help at this time.

Countries officially on the gold standard are prepared to pay their debts when due and demanded and to redeem their bonds, notes and bills in actual gold, if required. Countries not officially on the gold standard, usually in order to preserve, behind their bonds, notes and bills, a certain minimum amount of tangible gold security, do not guarantee always to pay their debts at once in tangible gold, although in practice actually they may always do so. (This, without doubt, is exactly the position in which Great Britain finds herself at this moment.)

The quoted exchange value of a country's currency, in the pound, the dollar, the franc, the mark, etc., whether that country is on or off the gold standard, simply expresses the opinion of the world at large as to the value of that country's currency, or credit, in terms of gold.

The real value of any country's exchange does not always depend as to whether that country is officially on or off the gold standard, but certainly does depend in the main upon the credit of that country or in the faith that the world at large has that the particular country will always pay its debts, in full, exactly when due, and in some medium of exchange that is acceptable to both parties, or as a last resort in gold.

Naturally the knowledge that a certain country has a large amount of gold in reserve is good tangible evidence of ability to pay, hence of good credit.

That a country balances its budget each year is also evidence that warrants faith. That a country is trading at a profit and so has surplus funds to invest, and that a country is year by year not spending more than it can afford, or that country has valuable potential resources that can be developed to bring in wealth, are all reasons for faith in that country and are reasons that will inevitably result in a high exchange value of that country's currency, whether it is on or off the gold standard.

In the long run the real price of wheat or any other commodity, that is its purchasing value in relation to all other commodities, will depend but very little upon the rates of exchange, or upon whether countries are on or off the gold standard, but will in the main depend upon the relationship of the supply and the demand of wheat or any other commodity, and will further depend also in no small measure upon the purchasing power of those persons who need the commodity wherever they may reside, and the purchasing power of these persons must depend in the long run upon whether, on the whole, they can sell the products of their own hands or brains at a profit. If they can do this they are eager buyers of wheat and all commodities, and are willing to pay a fair price because they can afford it. If, however, they are unable to sell the products of their own hands or brains, then naturally they will have but little with which to purchase any commodities, and will only be able to afford those that are offered at a cheap price.

Trade Through Churchill

Bright Future Is Predicted For Western Canada's Seaport

That eventual flow of the main current of trade from central Canada to the east, will probably go over the Hudson Bay route through Churchill in future years, is the opinion of Lloyd Roberts, of Ottawa, son of Dr. Charles G. D. Roberts, eminent Canadian author and poet, who, with his father, was a recent visitor to northern Manitoba. Mr. Roberts stated that while on his visit to the new port he had been informed on good authority that $3,000 was saved in sending the recent test shipment of grain to Churchill from the west, as compared with transporting to Port William.

Mr. Roberts, a well-known Canadian journalist and, like his father, a writer of prose and poetry, has for six years, been a member of the press gallery at Ottawa.

Abundant Crops For Next Year Predicted

Precipitation Figures Show Guarantee Of Sufficient Moisture For 1932

Prediction that there would be abundant crops throughout western Canada next year, was made by Robert Henderson, mortgage co-operation inspector, on his return to Toronto from a two months' tour of the west.

Conditions both on the farms and in the cities were not as bleak as they had been painted, he said. Certain definite areas in southern Saskatchewan and Alberta were experiencing difficulties, but he cited his collections, butter production figures and bumper crops in the northern parts of the prairies as indications that things were not as bad as they appeared.

He based his prediction of the crop next year on rainfall statistics for the past few months. Precipitation figures for the past three months, he declared, provided a guarantee of sufficient moisture for 1932.

Bakers' Pastry

Association Discusses Criticism That Cakes All Taste Alike

The criticism that all bakers' cakes taste alike was discussed by several delegates at the convention of the Bread and Cake Bakers' Association at Montreal.

One baker attributed the monotony of flavor to the fact that the trade used too much vanilla essence, killing the taste of the eggs and butter. Another felt that the fault lay in practices of baking the cake before it was iced and then frosting the iced cake before it was put on the cake. Cake and iced cake should be baked together in the bakery to get the combined effect. Yet another put forward the explanation that flavoring was often poured in carelessly without accurate measurements.

Bakers only supplied eight to 10 per cent of the cake consumed by the community, declared a delegate.

Fish Preserved By New "Quick Freezing" Process Going Forward From Prince Rupert

Commercial shipments of fresh Alaskan salmon and halibut, treated under the new "quick freezing" process of refrigeration, have now begun to move regularly between Prince Rupert and New York, according to the traffic officials of the Canadian National Railways, and at least 200 carloads, each containing some 20,000 pounds of "quick frozen" fish will be moved over Canadian National Railway lines between November 1 and the end of February. It was only last month that the first "quick frozen" fish ever handled between Alaska and the east were delivered in Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Also peanuts!

Not just a small garden patch of peanuts, but a whole field of them. On the outskirts of the village of Waterford lives one, Sammy Zerluk, Ukrainian by birth, who has successfully raised and harvested an acre or more of peanuts.

Sammy owns ten acres of land and grows a variety of fine crops, but these peanuts are his especial pride and care.

It was rather a strange thing how he got the idea about growing peanuts. One day he was in the city of Hamilton and from a street corner vendor bought a five-cent bag of peanuts. He opened one or two of them and found the nuts in their natural raw and unroasted condition. Not caring for peanuts of this kind, he took them along home. Next day he thought of planting the peanuts in a flower pot which he did.

The peanuts grew up, produced flourishing plants and multiplied.

That was four years ago. The next year Sammy put a few out in the garden where they seemed to grow equally well. Another year passed and he had quite a patch. There were not such a great quantity of peanuts but sufficient to appease the appetite of his young boys.

Without the slightest knowledge of the science of growing peanuts or of soil and climatic requirements he planted over an acre to peanuts last spring. The soil is a fairly light sandy loam, and the land has a gradual slope. The plants did well from the outset and were as husky looking as a field of potatoes. The plant is not as tall as a potato plant, however, and more resembles the vines of a bean plant. The peanuts cluster thickly about the roots of the plant.

Runs Into Millions
A contemporary points out that while home-grown tonatoes are to be seen everywhere at present, "a few months from now we shall be importing them as usual, from Bermuda." It is interesting to find that Canada imports fresh tomatoes to the extent of about $1,600,000 per year, but in the past these have come chiefly from the United States (more than two-thirds of the total) with Mexico second and Bermuda a poor third.

A total of 47,779 tons of German anthracite has been imported this season. British bituminous imports have reached 19,883, a reduction from last year of 13,662 tons.

AS OLD KING GOLD FELL

Announcement that the British National Cabinet had decided to ask Parliament to pass a bill temporarily suspending the gold standard, brought this huge, mile-long humanity to Trocadero Street, London, England, where the Stock Exchange is located. Here's the Wall Street of London, England, as it was filled to overflowing by vitally interested Britons.

In highly optimistic and ringing terms, Premier R. B. Bennett emphasized Canada's unconquerable belief in herself. The Canadian Prime Minister spoke at the opening of the new home of the Canadian Club of New York, recently.

"Canada has an immense, an unconquerable belief in herself," Mr. Bennett declared, and with his remarks wholehearted applause broke forth from his audience. "We have the faith that accepts good times as our natural due and bad times as only an interlude between past prosperity and the greater prosperity that is to come. I suppose we were born that way, and all the forces of world distress are powerless to change us. That does not mean that Canadians are vainglorious, reckless or prodigal; for they are not."

"In any kind of life thrift and economies are virtues, in our pioneering lives, they are necessities. Nor does it mean that Canadians are confused between the facts as they are and as they would have them. We face whatever situation may arise with the knowledge that however bad it may be, hard work by all our people, courage in every walk of life, real and intelligent co-operation among the elements which compose the nation, cannot fail to better our position."

The Prime Minister faced distinguished fellow-Canadians prominent in the professional and business life of the United States.

"I am not here to discuss the state of affairs in Canada," Premier Bennett stated. "But for the purpose of the very happy purpose of meeting old friends whom the turn of events which carry us hither and thither, has too long separated from me."

Our trade reports—our bank statements, our revenues, our expenditures are published and made available to all. They tell the story of our progress in these troubled times; that, and the fact that our great institutions built upon the foundations so long ago determined to be sound, and unshaken in this economic convulsion which has rocked the world.

"You all know that and the reason as well why, though we have problems, though we have unemployment, though nature this year has been unkind to our western wheat areas, our problems are less acute than those of other countries; our unemployment situation while serious is controllable, and the major calamity in our west is one from which we can forecast an early recovery."

Insurance Companies In U.S. For Prohibition Agents

Maybe you didn't know it, but being a prohibition agent is just as dangerous as being an acrobat or a stunt man.

The American Life Convention, holding its 26th national sessions at Pittsburg, reviewed the occupational manual from its committee on "average lives" and right there under the heading "R.N.A." up beside folk who risk their necks in other ways, the committee has listed prohibition agents.

"R.N.A." it is explained, means "risk not accepted."

The Canadian Farm Loan Act.

ARTICLE No. 3

In this article I intend to deal with the advantage to the investor in farm mortgages of the Farm Loan Act. Agricultural land is recognized everywhere as the safest form of security known. It is, however, under the present system open to several objections. A land mortgage is secured by a lien on a single farm and so the value of it, and the income from it are governed by conditions which may affect that particular farm or farmer from year to year. Being written for a short period, it may not be sold readily by the holder who wishes to realize on it. The holder of a mortgage may not always receive his interest with desired regularity, even though the borrower may be perfectly good. Also, usually the holder does not care to have the principal reduced until it is due. Before an investor can be induced to place his money in a security which yields only a low rate of interest, it must be safe and liquid. Under the present system a mortgage is safe, but not always liquid. The intervention of the Farm Loan Act between the lender and the borrower will overcome these disadvantages.

Under the Act, the Dominion Government subscribes initial capital to the Farm Loan Board to an amount not to exceed five million dollars, for which no interest is charged for three years from the time it is advanced. After that time, if the advance has not been repaid, the Board must pay interest on it at the rate of five per cent. per annum.

Capital stock is issued by the Board in denominations of $100 per share. The Dominion Government must subscribe to this stock to the amount of five per cent. of all loans made by the Board. Each province must subscribe to the stock to the extent of five per cent. of the loans made under the Act in that province and each borrower must subscribe to the extent of five per cent. of the amount borrowed by him. Thus, at all times the paid-up capital stock must be equivalent to fifteen per cent. of the total amount loaned by the Board.

The Board may also issue bonds to the extent of twenty times the paid-up capital stock. It is by the sale of these bonds that the Board obtains the money to loan to the farmer. The bonds are secured by the first mortgage land security taken by the Board upon the borrower's property, and by the paid-up capital stock. They are payable in thirty years or more and are sold at as low a rate of interest as possible. The money obtained is loaned to the farmer at a rate of interest high enough to pay all expenses and the interest on the bonds. Any profits derived from the spread between the interest paid by the farmer and that paid to the bondholders after all expenses have been paid, is held in a reserve fund until it equals twenty-five per cent of the paid-up capital. After the reserve fund has been taken care of, the profits are distributed as dividends on the capital stock. When the borrower pays up his loan he is given credit for the capital stock held by him and the dividends that have accrued thereon.

LOCAL & GENERAL

Mrs. Hugh Lee was a Calgary visitor for a few days last week.

Miss Laura Smith was a visitor to Ponoka over the week-end.

J. A. McGhee was a visitor to the southern city Saturday night.

Mr. Ed. Ford attended a General Motors convention at the Palliser Hotel, Calgary yesterday.

Mr. W. Moon underwent a serious appendix operation last week-end, but is progressing very favorably.

The hockey boys are arranging to give their annual dance in the near future. Watch for announcements.

Miss Olive Hyde who is teaching at Red Deer, spent the week-end with her parents west of town.

Messrs. C. H. Ashhead, M. Ford, F. Johnson and Al. Murray, a visitor from Elton are out on a hunting trip this week.

A meeting of the Didsbury branch of the Red Cross Society will be held in the old United Church tomorrow evening (Friday) at 8 p.m. The members and all interested are asked to attend.

There was a good crowd attended the Saturday night dance inaugurated last week-end. They report that the music was very good, all having an enjoyable time. These dances will be held every Saturday night during the winter.

The Ladies Aid of the Evangelical Church will hold their annual sale of needlework and home cooking, etc. in the Opera House on Saturday, November 28th from 2 to 5 p.m. There will be a novelty counter for boys and girls and a parcel post counter. Lunch will be served during the afternoon.

Thus we see that the Board comes between the investor and the borrower. The investor buys a bond on which the interest will be promptly paid when due and which can be sold on the bond market if he wishes to dispose of it. The bonds are so safe that they have been declared to be even a proper investment for trust funds. On the other hand, the farmer is supplied with money at a low rate of interest and on terms suitable to his business. Thus the wants of both investor and borrower are met by the Canadian Farm Loan Act.

In my next article I will deal with the historical aspect of the system and the necessity that our farmers should be given the advantage of it.

"Pack up Your Troubles — and Smile! Smile!! Smile!!!"

The famous war-time marching chorus might well have served as the theme-song for the events in connection with McGill University's 1931 Convocation, as can be seen from the faces in the above group, which includes four distinguished Canadians granted honorary degrees at the great gathering in Montreal. E. W. Beatty, K.C., Chairman and President of the Canadian Pacific Railway and Chancellor of McGill, (third from right), seems to be the ring-leader in the cheerfulness movement. It would be difficult to find a group more typical of Canadian affairs; and just look how that infectious smile has done its work! Left to right: F. W. McLennan, eminent Canadian mining engineer; A. C. Rutherford, Chancellor of the University of Alberta; Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada; Mr. Beatty; Dr. Harvey Smith and Sir Arthur Currie, President of McGill University. The lower picture shows Mr. Bennett and Mr. Beatty, about to leave Sir Arthur Currie's home for the Campus, in a carriage drawn by a team of students. Note the "No Parking" sign, adopted by the "state coachman" as his staff of office. It was a memorable day. Everyone smiled—even the Weather Man!

A fast twenty-foot quarter mile race track built up and surfaced like a good tennis court, will be ready for the 14th annual Dominion track and field championships to be held at Banff September 2 next. The meet in the fall will be the first time the Dominion championships have been held in Alberta since 1922. The Highland Gathering and Scottish Music Festival held every year at Banff, will precede and coincide with the championship meet.

Fourteen hundred Bibles bound in linen with red edges, placed across the front of the stage in the spacious concert room of the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, was the sight that greeted a congregation of over 3,000 people who crowded the big hall of the hotel at a Bible dedication service recently held there. They were for placement in every room of the hotel by the Gibson Association, whose Canadian president, Samuel Paton, of Milwaukee, were both present at the function.

Will Not Lose Anything

Two of the largest hotels in New York announce they will accept Canadian money at par value, despite its depressed condition. The announcement said the two hotels had accepted Canadian money at par even during the days immediately after the Great War, and would continue to do so regardless of the money's worth in United States funds.

Huge Sum For Charity

Charitable Bequests Will Consume Most Of Estate Of Late Sir Thomas Lipton

Sir Thomas Lipton left £80,000 sterling to the poor mothers and children of Glasgow, his native town. It was revealed when the will was read. It is estimated that the total estate will exceed £1,000,000.

The Lipton country home at Osidge is to be reserved as a home for nurses with an endowment of £20,000.

After payment of legacies to friends, employees and servants, the remainder of the estate is to be divided among hospitals and charitable institutions in Glasgow, the town of Cambuslang, five miles from Glasgow, London and Middlesex.

Charitable bequests will consume most of the estate for it is estimated that they will total more than £1,000,000.

Remove the rind and seeds from a small pumpkin and cut the flesh in inch cubes. Cook in a small amount of water until tender. Drain and weigh. For each pound of pumpkin allow 1 pound of sugar, 2 lemons and 2 ounces of ginger root. Slice the lemons and cook with the ginger overnight in cold water. Next morning cook in same water until the lemon rind is tender. Add the sugar and the pumpkin, and simmer until the pumpkin is transparent. Drain and pack in jars. Cook syrup until it is thick and pour over the fruit in the jars. Seal tightly.

1 medium-sized white onion.
2 red peppers.
2 teaspoon salt.
cup grated horse-radish.
1 pint vinegar.
cup sugar.
Cook the beefs until they are tender and the skins slip off easily. Cut or chop the beefs, onion, and peppers. Combine the ingredients. Cook the mixture until it is clear. Seal it in clean, hot jars.

Cattle Reach Paris

Is First Consignment Canada Has Shipped To France

There recently arrived in Paris the first consignment of Canadian cattle ever shipped to France. The shipment consisted of 172 head worth $60,000 francs. All were in excellent health and there was not a single casualty in the crossing.

This will be followed by a second consignment shortly. Moreover, French agents are shortly expected to Canada to purchase lean heifers and steers to replace France's greatly depleted herds. France can assimilate regular weekly shipments of Canadian cattle for fattening.

Owing to veterinary regulations, Canada and Switzerland are the only two countries allowed to export cattle to France, and Switzerland has no exportable surplus.

Natural Resources Will Help Develop Churchill

Needs More Than Wheat Asserts Kenneth K. McArdle

Wheat shipments alone could not make Churchill a real port. In the opinion of Kenneth K. McArdle, managing editor of the Commerce of the Nation, organ of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, which last month conducted a tour to the new Hudson's Bay ocean port.

"But on the other hand there are vast mineral resources north of The Pas to mile 250, including large marble deposits and limitless water power and I believe that Churchill will definitely come out through the development of the natural resources which lie to the south. Leaders in the western cities are not now so enthusiastic on the Churchill scheme as they once were, but they have interested others who are confidently on the defensive in the support of their undertaking and through their work and interest the dream of the west may come true."

He was addressing the Advertising Club of Montreal.

Here's a lovely model in printed flat crepe, so smart and easy to wear. Its charmingly slender too.

The bodice cuts all in one until it fans the skirt flounce, which makes it especially simple for home seamstresses.

Another idea for this easily made model, that will make it appear entirely different, is to make it sleeveless with the cape collar as shown in miniature view.

Dainty chiffon print, eyelet batiste and pastel tub silk make up most attractively with the caplet collar.

Then again for active sports, you can make it with the short sleeves without the caplet. Choose cotton mesh, pique or linen.

Indians Have Filled Claims At Government Office In Calgary

Gold discoveries northwest of the Morley Indian Reserve have shed some light on the mysterious trips of an aged prospector of Calgary who died without revealing the source of his wealth. Twenty-five Indians from the reserve sped into Calgary in automobiles to file gold claims at the Government office. They said they would begin working claims 50 miles northwest of Morley which is 50 miles west of Calgary.

The Indian invasion recalled Calgary's mysterious prospector. Each spring the veteran would journey to Cochrane or Morley, hire a pack horse and head northwards. A few months later he would return. Little sacks of gold larded his pack horse. It was said the average return for the prospector's few months' work each year was $2,000.

"There has been more than the usual number of inquiries from United States points this year and the Royal's survey of Ontario and Quebec indicates that there is considerably more live stock than usual ready for exhibition, so that we are very satisfied that the Winter Fair will open with the best and most representative live stock displays which we have ever had."

"Although general conditions last winter were anything but favorable, 1930 was the Royal's record year, not only in exhibits and attendance, but the spirit of the people at the show was happier than at any previous event. We feel sure that the spirit of optimism that time has served a very useful purpose in that it has enabled Canadians better to view recent economic adjustments with equanimity. We believe that a similar result will be secured at the forthcoming Royal Winter Fair, and be more noticeable perhaps on account of the greater contrast in conditions."

"The Royal this year is designed to commemorate its founding and inauguration ten years ago, when in the depression that followed the war it helped so signally to restore confidence to Dominion agriculture generally. Since its birth at that time it has established itself as an institution to which Canadians all over Canada have pointed with a very considerable pride."

"The Royal is entering upon its new cycle under conditions which permit it to perform a service to Canada in influencing the general outlook and state of mind of the Canadian people, apart altogether from its influence upon agriculture. The aim of the management is that everyone who visits the Royal and everyone who exhibits there shall be better equipped to meet whatever problems may cross their path in the immediate future."

World's Grain Show

The World's Grain Conference and Exhibition, which it was originally planned to hold in Regina, Saskatchewan, from July 25th to August 6th, 1932, has been postponed until corresponding dates in 1933.

Windbreak Necessary

Plums, cherries, and the hardier varieties of apples have been successfully grown on the Canadian prairies, but the orchards in all cases were protected by a suitable windbreak.

But just think how long Methuselah might have lived if he had had his tonsils out and had used the right toothpaste.

Royal Winter Fair

Note Of Confidence In Canadian Agriculture Is Sounded

A welcome and refreshing tone of confidence in Canadian agricultural conditions is sounded in the announcement by the management of the Royal Winter Fair that "prospects for entries at the Royal in all departments were never better than at the present moment."

"Exhibitors in the western Provinces are most anxious to continue to display their live stock and other agricultural products," the Royal's statement goes on, "and the Dominion Government and the Provincial Governments, recognizing the advantages of the Province continuing to occupy a prominent position at the Royal are contributing their usual financial assistance in transportation and in the selection of the live stock and agricultural products."

"There has been more than the usual number of inquiries from United States points this year and the Royal's survey of Ontario and Quebec indicates that there is considerably more live stock than usual ready for exhibition, so that we are very satisfied that the Winter Fair will open with the best and most representative live stock displays which we have ever had."

He made no answer, but released her instantly, and in her anxiety to show him how well she could manage she hurried on, struck the tip of the skate she was still wearing against a little hummock of frozen snow, and all but fell. He caught her as she stumbled.

"I think," he remarked drily, "you would do well to sacrifice your independence till your feet are on more equal terms with one another."

Jean laughed ruefully.

"I think I should," she agreed meekly.

He led her to where the prone trunk of a tree offered a seat of sorts, then went in search of the missing skate. Returning in a few moments, he knelt beside her and fastened it on—securely this time—to the slender foot she extended towards him.

"You're much too incompetent to be out on the ice alone," he remarked as he buckled the last strap.

A faint flush of annoyance rose in Jean's cheeks at the uncompromising frankness of the observation.

"What are your friends thinking of to let you do such a thing?" he pursued, blandly ignoring her meek protest.

"I have no friends here, I am—my own mistress," she replied rather tartly.

He was still kneeling in the snow in front of her. Now he sat back on his heels and subjected her face to a sharp, swift scrutiny. Almost, she thought, she detected a sudden veiled suspicion in the keen glance.

"You're not the sort of girl who is knocking about alone at a hotel," he said at last, as though satisfied.

"How do you know what I'm like?" she retorted quickly. "You are hardly qualified to judge."

"Fadden, mademoiselle, I do not know what you are—but I do know very certainly what you are not. And—smiling a little—"I think we have just had a subtle demonstration of the fact that you're not accustomed to fending for yourself."

There was something singularly attractive about his smile. It lightened his whole face, contradicting the settled gravity that seemed habitual to it, and Jean found herself smiling back in response.

"Well, as a matter of fact, I'm not," she admitted. "I came here with my father, and he was was suddenly called away. I am going on to stay with friends."

"This is my last day here," he remarked with sudden irrelevance. "I am off first thing tomorrow morning."

"You're not stopping at the hotel, are you?"

He shook his head.

"No, I'm staying at a friend's chalet a little way beyond it. 'Mais, voyons, mademoiselle,' you will catch cold sitting there. Are you too frightened to try the ice again?"

He seemed to assume that her next essay would be made in his company. Jean spoke a little hurriedly.

"Oh, no, I was supposed to have a lesson with Monsieur Griotlet this morning. He is an instructor," she explained. "But he was engaged coaching someone else when I came out."

"And which is this Monsieur Griotlet? Can you see him?"

Jean's glance ranged over the scattered figures on the rink.

"Yes, there he is."

His eyes followed the direction indicated.

"He seems to be well occupied at the moment," he commented. "Suppose—would you allow me to act as coach instead?"

She hesitated. This stranger appeared to be in command of a progressive in his tendencies.

"I'm perfectly capable," he added curtly.

"I'm sure of that. But—"

His eyes twinkled.

"But if you don't, he would 'comme il faut' it. Is that it?"

"Well, it wouldn't," she retorted.

His face grew suddenly grave, and he noticed that when in repose there were deep, straight lines on either side of his mouth—lines that are usually only furrowed by severe suffering, either mental or physical.

"Mademoiselle," he said quietly.

"To-day, it seems, we are two very lonely people. Couldn't we forget what is 'comme il faut' for once? We shall probably never meet again. We know nothing of each other—just ships that pass in the night. Let us keep one another company—take this one day together."

He drew a step nearer to her.

"Will you?" he said. "Will you?"

He was looking down at her with eyes that were curiously bright and compelling. There was a tense note in his voice which once again sent that disconcerting tremor of consciousness tingling through her blood.

She knew that his proposal was impertinent, unconventional, even regarded from the standpoint of the modern broad interpretation of the word convention, and that by every lie of Mrs. Grundy she ought to snub him soundly for his presumption and retrace her steps to the hotel with all the dignity at her command.

But she did none of these things. Instead, she stood hesitating, alternately flushing and paling beneath the oddly concentrated gaze he bent on her.

"I swear it shall bind you to nothing," he pursued urgently. "Not even to recognizing me in the street should our ways ever chance to cross again."

Though that is hardly likely to occur," with a shrug—"seeing that mademoiselle is French and that I am rarely out of England. It will be just one day that we shall have shared together out of the whole of life, and after that the darkness again and a silence."

I can promise you the silence," he added with a sudden harsh infection.

It was that bitter note which won the day. In some subtle, subconscious way Jean sensed the pain which lay at the back of it. She answered impulsively.

"Very well. It shall be as you wish."

A rarely sweet smile curved the man's grave lips.

"Thank you," he said simply.

CHAPTER IV.

The Skion Day

"Encore une fois! Bravo! That went better!"

Monsieur Griotlet's understudy had amply justified his claim to capability. After a morning's tuition at his hands, Jean found her prowess in the art of skating considerably enhanced.

She was even beginning to master the mysteries of "cross-cuts" and "rocking turns," and a somewhat attenuated figure eight lay freshly scored on the ice to her credit.

"You are really a wonderful instructor!" she acknowledged, surveying the graven witness to her progress with considerable satisfaction.

Her self-appointed teacher smiled.

HER FAT HAD TO GO

Activity Melted It

Exercise is the enemy of fat. If you are overburdened with soft, flabby flesh, call up reserves of energy to fight it. Do as this girl did.

During the past six months, I have made steadily improvement whilst taking Kneiss Salts. I have reduced 28 lbs. in weight during that period, and have benefited greatly from greater vigor and endurance—all directly attributable to that famous preparation.—Mrs. W. L.

You can take off fat with Kneiss Salts if you will take one-half teaspoon in hot water every morning before breakfast, modify your diet and exercise regularly.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy, endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer, and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kneiss brings. The old man chair won't hold you any more—you'll want to be up and doing—all enjoy work and active recreation and you'll sleep like a top. You'll lose fat, and probably live years longer.

"There is something to be said for the pupil, also," he replied. "But now," glancing at his watch, "I vote we call a halt for lunch."

"Lunch?" Jean's glance measured the distance to the hotel with some dismay.

"But not lunch at the hotel!" interposed her companion quickly.

Jean regarded him with curiosity.

"Where then, monsieur?"

"Up there!" he pointed towards the pine-woods. "Above the woods there is a hut of sorts—erected as a shelter in case of sudden storms for people coming up from the lower valley to Montavan and beyond. It's a rough little shanty, but it would serve very well as a temporary safe manger. It isn't a long climb," he added persuasively. "Are you too tired to take it on after your recent session?"

"Not in the least. But are you expecting a wayside refuge of that description to be miraculously endowed with a well-furnished larder?"

"No. But I think my knapsack can make good the deficiency," he replied composedly.

Jean looked at him with dancing eyes. Having once yielded to the day's unconventional adventure, she had surrendered herself whole-heartedly to the enjoyment of it.

She made one reservation, however. Some instinct of self-protection prevented her from enlightening her companion as to her partly English nationality. There was no real necessity for it, seeing that he spoke French with the utmost fluency, and his assumption that she was a French woman seemed in some way to limit the feeling of intimacy, conferring on her, as it were, a little of the freedom of an incognito.

"A la bonne heure!" she exclaimed gaily. "So you invite me to share your lunch, monsieur le professeur?"

"I've invited you to share my day, haven't I?" he replied, smiling.

They steered for the bank, and when he had helped off her skates and removed his own, slinging them over his arm, they started off along the steep white track which wound its way upwards through the pine-woods.

As they left the bright sunlight that still glittered on the snowy slopes behind them, it seemed as though they plunged suddenly into another world—a still, mysterious, twilight place, where the snow underfoot muffled the sound of their steps and the long shadows of the pines barred their path with sinister, distorted shapes.

Germany Building Glass Houses

Young Woman Architect Predicts They Will Be Common

People who live in glass houses will be no more exceptional than those whose dwellings are brick, stone or wood ten or fifteen years from now, according to Margaret V. Van Pelt, young New York architect. Miss Van Pelt, who recently became a member of a long established New York firm of architects, has returned to work in her New York office after a year's studying trends in architecture in Europe.

"The Germans are building glass houses already," she explained. "I saw several of them. Of course the glass has to be of the strongest sort. They are using glass also to decorate interiors. Sometimes it is transparent and sometimes black.

"Glass, metal and strong colour contrasts in decorating exteriors are the newest notes in building design in Germany. The tendency toward geometric effects is even more marked than in our American skyscrapers. City blocks in which pink, blue, beige and mauve coloured houses stand side by side are being erected."

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

SUNFLOWER'S SONG

The sunflower owes allegiance
To nothing save the sun;
But, ah! how can she meet the hours
When day is done?

Her fealty is splendid,
Her very heart she bares;
But as dusk deepens she must know
What bleak despair!

I know how she must shudder
Through the black abyss of night;
In all the whirling universe
No golden light!

I know how she must ache for
The signal-lights of dawn;
Her fear-filled vigils I can share
Since you are gone!

Yet eastward I am looking,
Morn's gases are almost won;
I lift my petals up in hope,
Come back, my sun!

Will Take Precautions

Treasure Seekers May Carry Arms To Guard Against Sea Pirates

Precautions against hijackers, such as occasionally laid rich liquor-laden ships, will be taken by Lieut.-Col. J. E. Leckie, head of the Vancouver expedition which in a few weeks will sail to Cocos Island to search for the buried treasure of ancient pirates.

Col. Leckie has communicated with the Department of National Defence seeking permission to arm his ship against eventualities on the sea or on Cocos Island. Col. Leckie wants the use of machine guns and "pomps" which are in the arsenal at Esquimalt. Even if this permission is not granted, the ship will be armed against possible sea raiders. Col. Leckie has already arranged to carry privately owned machine guns and numerous rifles.

Health cannot be looked for in the child that is subject to worms, because worms destroy health by retarding internal disturbances that retard development and cause serious weakness. Miller's Worm Powders expel worms and are so beneficial in their action that the health of the little sufferers are restored to healthfulness, all the discomforts and dangers of worm infestation are removed, and satisfactory growth is assured.

Little Helps For This Week

"In your patience possess ye your souls."—Psalm cix. 19.

Hold in thy murmurs Heaven arraiguing:

The patient see God's loving face:

Who bear their burdens uncomplaining.

"Tis they that win the Father's grace.

The soul loses command of itself when it is impatient. Whereas, when it submits without a murmur, it possesses itself in peace, and possesses God. To be impatient is to desire what we have not, or not to desire what we have. An impatient soul is a prey to passions unrestrained by reason of faith. What weakness, what delusion! When we acquiesce in an evil, it is no longer such. Why make a real calamity of it by resistance? Hence does not dwell in outward things, but within the soul. We may preserve it in the midst of bitterest pain if our will remains firm and submissive. Peace in this life springs from acquiescence even in disagreeable things, not in an exemption from bearing them.

Freedom From Asthma. Asthma is one of the most distressing troubles, sudden in its attacks and prolonged in its agonies. Frequently many things are tried, but nothing seems to give hope of relief. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is the one help which can be depended upon. If you have tried other remedies without success, do not fail to get at once a package of this uniformly successful preparation.

Catfish Leather. Catfish leather may eventually win favour with the lady of fashion for her handbag or shoes. Not until recently has a market been found for catfish caught in Nova Scotia, but a firm of leather manufacturers in the United States has found that a soft and pliable product can be made from the skins of catfish dyed in the gutted or most sombre of colours, with the result that catfish skins are being shipped from Yarmouth County, Nova Scotia. The price paid for the raw skins is about 15 cents each.

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

When your baby fusses, fusses and seems unable to sleep restfully, look for one common cause, doctors say. Constipation. To get rid quickly of the accumulated waste which causes restlessness and discomfort, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation, contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. Several residents of the district attended the supper, concert and dance given by the local branch of the Canadian Legion on Armistice Day.

The annual bazaar of the W.I. was held Friday last and in spite of inclement weather proved a success. The cake so kindly donated was won by Mrs. J. Haynes, and the quilt by Everett Blain. Prizes for whist went to: Ladies 1st, Miss N. Finley; Gentlemen 1st, Mr. Klein; Consolations, Mrs. Wm. Devlin and A. St. Claire. Mr. Hugh Roberts proved an efficient anticioneer during the evening. Dancing was indulged in. Mr. M. Woods acting as M.C. The ladies wish to thank all who helped make this event a financial aid toward the depleted funds of the W.I.

Burnside Notes

There will be a dance in Lone Pine Hall on November 20th.

Many neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. Bill Winters on Tuesday evening to Chiveree Mr. Richard Guenther and his bride. Congratulations.

Burnside Horseshoe team, composed of Messrs: Percy Saunders, Ralph Honey, Noah and Robert Eckel, went to Calgary on Friday last and played a Calgary team at the recreation grounds near the C. N.R. Station, Burnside winning the game. This probably finishes the horseshoe for this season.

Lone Pine W.I. met last Thursday at the home of Miss Winnie Spraggs with a good attendance of members and visitors. Arrangements were made for the annual exchange of gifts at the December meeting, gifts to be inexpensive and useful. Miss Winnie Spraggs gave a splendid paper on Education and Better Schools.

The next meeting of the W.I. will be held in the Lone Pine Hall on Thursday, Dec. 3rd, and will be for election of officers for 1932, also payment of dues.

"Y" Notes.

The Didsbury Y Girls held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Miss Freda Smith on Nov. 10th.

After a fairly lengthy discussion on December activities, Mrs. Harder gave a very interesting lecture on "Social Hygiene." This was followed with games and a delectable lunch.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. L. Wrigglesworth on December 1st, and all members and friends are cordially invited.

Weekly Sermonette.

"Many put zero into the collection and then complain that the church is cold."

"S. O. S!"

The Red Cross store room is nearly empty! The privations of winter are again with us, and the calls for help are coming in. The Red Cross Society's duty is to help in cases of emergency. Government relief is good, but there is a certain amount of red tape attached to it, so that the Red Cross steps in and gives immediate relief where it is required.

Money, clothes and provisions are urgently called for. Any cast-off clothing is gratefully received, no matter that it is out of fashion. Warmth and comfort for the kiddies and the older folk is what is needed. Fashions don't count when it is forty below.

The good people of Didsbury and district have a well-known reputation for cheerful giving. Just as this was being written, a splendid donation of twenty-five dollars came from Mens Chapter, I.O.O.F., and many friends are dropping in with parcels of clothing. The hat is rolling, keep it rolling. The calls for help this winter will be many and the store room empties quickly. The secretary's office is always open. If money is not very plentiful, a sack of flour or any other kind of provision will be thankfully received.

There will be a meeting of the Red Cross Society tomorrow evening (Friday) at 8 p.m. in the old Knox United Church building. Everyone is welcome. It is hoped that the Junior branch of the Red Cross will be well represented.

Ogden Shop Men Resume Work, Tues.

After a shut-out of two months, more than 800 workmen at Canadian Pacific Railway shops at Ogden trooped through the gates Tuesday morning and resumed their old places at bench and lathe.

An announcement by officials was to the effect that work was in full swing again and that employment had been found for the full number that were laid off on September 18 last.
